“ I miss you papa. It has been hard since you left... and I have a lot of uncertainty in my life right now and I'm stressed and scared to be honest and no one can really help me right now... I wish you were here even to just talk to... I miss your long hair, & your giant glasses. I miss how you liked to freak me out by shaving your beard off, (even tho I HATED it, you have no chin lol) I miss the sound of a harmonica, making artwork with you, & singing any of the Beatles with you. I still even have your pool cue. I hear rumors of an engagement coming my way... but I can never be certain and when I ask no one will confirm. But if it happens will you come? Please? You left before I ever had a chance to even show you who I was, before I could even graduate (you promised you'd be there remember?) I'm not mad that your gone. You were in SO much discomfort I just miss you so damn much. And have so many things I want to show you, stories I want to share with you, and important people I want to introduce you to... you would really like him papa... he's got a heart of platinum, gold has nothing on it. I miss you dad. I love you forever and a day. Still forever and always.

“ From 3rd grade birthday parties, to 6th grade air guitar band, (His favorite Beatles) To Friday night Lee Theater nights. His flat top hair cuts. To junior high rock band, to the Friday night parties on the loop. To Graduation. We shared our life travels together. We went our separate way's after high school. But one thing I could always count on from John was a big Hug.... I will miss him...

“ Memories of High School bring John to my mind. He was friendly, open hearted, and unpretentious, always a truly kind spirit to me. I am thankful to have known him.###imported-begin##Karen Klasen Moore###imported-end##

“ I am so sorry that we have lost John or Ebber as I called him. We were buds in high school and only the last couple of years got to visit with him at the Eagles. I will miss his 'I love you's' and 'hey beautimuss'. He was always so positive and I thought he would fight through this. But the Lord wanted to put him out of his suffering pain, and for that I am grateful. Now, no more pain, and at total peace. I love you Ebber!!!###imported-begin##Sue Elliott###imported-end##
