“ Keith was such a nice guy. So sorry this has happened to such a good person. My thoughts are with his kids and his wife.

When I first started working at Takata, I worked in 311. (An easy to clean, white material.) I was working one weekend and was asked to go help clean an 855/877 (a red VERY dirty, messy - stain everything kind of material) press bay with Keith so that they could PM it. I went in water buckets a blazing. Essentially making red mud puddles everywhere. The more I wiped, the more red I smeared so the more water I used and the worse it got. Keith came into the bay and was like - what are you doing?!?!?! Instead of making his day easier, I added more work for both of us. He was good about it though. Thank goodness it was him I was working with that day. He just rolled with it. That was his personality.
