“ Ken and met in the early 1970's while attending Centralia Community College. Back in those days there was no internet or Kindle readers and people read books and newspapers. In Ken I found someone who loved to read as did I. Every Sunday morning Ken and I would meet at his apartment with a dozen fresh baked donuts and the Sunday Seattle PI and Seattle Times. Great simple times drinking coffee, eating donuts and discussing the issue of the day. Thank you Ken.
