“ Uncle Myron was gifted in just about everything. He had perfect pitch and wrote operas and could he draw! But what I wanted to put were 2 funny things. When the family was out to dinner and we had all enjoyed a wonderful Chinese meal at the Panda House the waiter came over and really didn't know who to give the check to. Myron just turned to the waiter and said, "Just give the check to my father." Pointing to our Dad (his younger brother Paul Sutherland). Now Mom (Helen Sutherland)on the other hand had a picture taken of Myron and Dad standing in front of a geyser and labeled it, Two geezers and a geyser!

“ Uncle Myron was cool. He was the second oldest of Dad's (Paul Sutherland, deceased) brothers. I remember how incredibly talented he was. It is my one of my fondest recollections that he was a self-taught musician. Uncle Myron played the organ and piano. He played briefly for us. He was an incredible artist like George C. Sutherland, his father. Uncle Myron showed me some of his extraordinary art. I remember how amazingly detailed his drawings were. Dad always said that Myron was one of the more studious of the first of the older three "boys". Dwight Jesse, Myron Willis and Paul. I remember him taking me and my brother (Jon Paul Sutherland) who was real little at the time, for a ride on his tractor when he had the farm a LONG time ago. He and Aunt Elizabeth always seemed very happy and were so good together. Imagine 68 years of marriage! He was an amazing man that I had the privilege to know mostly when I was young. One of more ancient memories is of being really young sitting at Grandma Florence Sutherland's dinner table in Modesto, CA. The sheer enormity of the food spread! Yummy! Am I the the one who remembers Uncle Myron in overalls? I sat pretty close to him and Dad.

My niece Kendra Loomer (My sister, Carol Ann Sutherland Loomer's daughter) was married in 2000, Uncle Myron and Aunt Elizabeth DROVE to the wedding. That is how much he cared about our family. Peace to you, Uncle Myron. You are in the light of perfect love and grace. I love you.
