“ I first met Sherilynn in school when she attended soap lake and then in Ephrata school, she then moved away and I lost contact with her until I ran into her at BBCC in moses lake. I lost track of her after I left college. It wasn't until I met Ron at work and he told me that he has married her, and then last year I did some training at McCain foods and yes Sherilynn was the one who trained me for the times that I was there and we did some long time catching up and training. I will miss you and your smile and your friendship Sherilynn. You will always be in my heart and in my prayers. Love you girl and fly high with the angels

“ Sherilynn and the kids lived with me in 2011 and we have so many memories of that time. In fact her and I sat together and watch the news together and cried together during 9/11
But my best memory of my dear friend is our joking side and she would always spray me with the kitchen hose or a water bottle. Then she would giggle her one of a kind laugh and try and call a truce before I even had a chance to get her back. Well I finally got my revenge lol. She went downstairs to do a load of laundry and I took a 5 gallon bucket of cold water, put it out on the deck where we loved to sit and talk and laugh or play cards. Or watch Sharde get thrown off of Goose (horse) in the water trough. Well we sat and talked and I kept her well distracted with all the things she loved to talk about and I was taking my time being patient, waiting for the best moment to drench her down with a full 5 gallons of water. She was so distracted that she didn't even see me move all our important things on the table out of the way so they didn't get soaked. All the while she was talking talking talking. Lol I got up from my seat and paced the deck a little bit and before she could blink I grabbed the bucket and over her head it went. The force of the water about knocked her out of her seat. She sat there with the most surprised look on her face. I was waiting for her to kick my butt, but she looked at me finally and in a calm voice said ... well you finally got me back. Now we are even.. I said okay truce? She said truce! And she broke out in the biggest burst of laughter and we laughed so hard we cried. I love that lady!

“ I want to first send my Sincerest condolences to the family. The first time I was introduced to sherilyn was in 2008 in Libby Montana. The moment I meet her I knew in my heart she would be a very special woman in my life and also her family. She was a angel in disguise for me. I was lucky enough to thank her and to let her know what a impact she made in my life and actually turned me into the woman I am today. I just hope God knows he has a remarkable woman up there with him now. And I was blessed to know her. Sherilyn may you RIP My friend. You'll be DEARLY missed and loved by so many!! I love you.
